

XuiS Data Privacy Notice Code of Practice

Here at XuiS we take your privacy seriously. We only use your personal information for essential business purposes.

In accordance with the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR), which applies in all EU member states from 25th May 2018, the data we store and the way we use it is based on legitimate interest, therefore restricted to purposes essential for:

- providing an effective service to our customers, contacting them by post, email or telephone as appropriate about their contracts with XuiS for the supply of software licences, annual maintenance and related services which they have requested;
- receiving an effective service from our suppliers, contacting them by post, email or telephone as appropriate, in connection with the products and services they provide to XuiS and our customers;
- responding appropriately to contact via post, email, telephone or web-based request forms, initiated by other individuals.

Please click if you wish to download our detailed XuiS Data Protection Policy

You can email us at privacy@xuis.com if you have any comments or questions.